Learning Spanish: study tips

Short, regular practice beats long, rare sessions. Fifteen minutes every day will teach you more than two hours on Sunday.

Learn the most common few hundred words first. Use flashcards that quiz you at growing intervals, so you see a word again just before you would forget it. Say each word out loud.

Listen to slow podcasts for learners, and find a language partner to talk with once a week. Do not wait until you feel ready: making mistakes while speaking is how most people improve.
